The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

Half way around the world, the economic shock of the Battle of Britain has been felt by California agriculture, particularly in loss of markets for canned, dried and processed food products. Britain began the war with plenty of ships, and she preferred to bring in food supplies the long way 'round from her far-flung empire and thus conserve her limited dollar credits in this country for expenditure on planes, tanks and guns.

The German market was largely lost, even before the war was begun. — a severe shock to the California prune industry and to many other branches of agriculture. Hitler, striving for self-sufficiency, and seeking to keep German capital in Germany, cut off imports from California and other sections of the United States long before the British blockade finished the job. Italy, France and Spain—Belgium, Holland and Finland — also have been lost, at least for the time being, as potential markets for California produce.

History has a strange custom of repeating itself, however, and the slogan of 1918, "Food Will Win The War," may soon become the slogan of 1941. Attacks of Axis submarines and bombers upon English merchant ships have been so dangerously effective in reducing commercial tonnage that the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted a few days ago that Britain will be obliged to shorten her trade routes for civilian supplies, and obtain immense quantities of such supplies by the comparatively short sea haul from the U. S. A. and Canada. An enactment of the lend-lease bill has loosened the restrictions on British credit so that the purchase of food here will not endanger England's contracts for war material.

Although it is not yet generally recognized, the lend-lease act not only makes the United States the arsenal for Great Britain, but also her granary and food mart. Britain, at the moment, needs food almost as badly as she needs weapons and intends to draw on this country heavily for livestock products such as canned pork, dried eggs, evaporated milk, lard and cheese, which she formerly got from Poland, Denmark and Holland. Officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, however, do not expect Britain to ask for American wheat and corn — crops in which this country has tremendous surpluses. England apparently gets all of these crops it needs from the dominions. Indirectly, though, British purchases of livestock products will probably help the price of corn.

Reports from Washington indicate that the lend-lease act will bring about the biggest farm purchase plan since the last world war, with considerable benefit to American agriculture. But there will be no hectic campaign to plant millions of additional acres and boost production, as there was back in 1917 and 1918. Agriculture hasn't yet recovered from that debacle of more than two decades ago—and conditions today are vastly different.

In the first World War, England, France, Italy, the Scandinavian countries and even Russia desperately needed wheat and cotton. In fact, they called out for all manner of food supplies. American agriculture expanded its plant to feed two-thirds of the world; prices then boomed—and, when the war ended, the bottom fell out!

But today, while industrial areas in the United States have benefited from the national defense spending program, farming areas, thus far, have not. In fact, there has been serious danger that the farmer would find the prices of all the things he must buy increasing, with no comparable increase in the price of the commodity he sells. The anticipated big buying program by Britain may help to avert that calamity, but it will not, on the other hand, bring boom conditions to agriculture.

Any farmer who sees prosperity just around the corner, as a result of proposed shipments to Britain—and who might feel tempted to step up his production—should take another look. This country has a carry-over of 700,000,000 bushels of corn, or more than four times normal; we have a wheat carry-over of 400,000,000 bushels; we have 11,000,000 bales of surplus cotton, 372,000,000 pounds of surplus tobacco.

U. S. PROTECTION FOR DANISH GREENLAND PROMISED BY F.R.

PRESIDENT ASKS AUTHORITY TO BUY SHIPS

Special Message Requests Power To Pay For And Use Seized Foreign Vessels

WASHINGTON, (AP) — President Roosevelt today extended American protection to Greenland under an agreement with Denmark giving this nation the right to establish air bases and other fortifications on the vast island.

In an agreement signed yesterday with the Danish minister in Washington, Mr. Roosevelt promised no foreign power can impose its sovereignty on Greenland and that Greenland will remain a Danish colony. The White House said he acted after receiving reports that German airplanes have been flying over the vast ice-capped island.

Under the agreement, the United States proposes to make certain that Denmark will retain its control of Greenland and the United States pledges protection of the island during the period in which Denmark is under Nazi domination.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said Greenland, or any other foreign possessions in the western hemisphere, including Canada, will be defended if attacked by powers seeking to revise the status quo of sovereignty.

P.T.A. Meeting Next Thursday

District Officers To Seat New Heads; Pollock Pines Unit Growth Cited

The next regular meeting of Placerville Parent-Teacher Association, to be held Thursday afternoon, April 17, at the grammar school auditorium, will be of interest to all P. T. A. members of the county.

Mrs. W. D. Alexander, immediate past district president, will speak on activities of the P. T. A., and Mrs. J. C. Fitzhenry, who was installed as district president at the recent convention in Placerville, will install officers of the Placerville unit with Mrs. George Faugstad as president.

Mrs. Grace Steen will contribute vocal numbers to the program.

It will be gratifying to the members of the organization in the county to know that in the Third District there are 56 units of the P. T. A. having a total membership of 5,995.

El Dorado County generally and Pollock Pines district in particular has a feather in its cap because Pollock Pines district has shown the largest gain in membership of any elementary school P. T. A. in the district during the past year.

Arrangements for services commemorating the tragic event have been announced by two churches in the community.

Services will commence at noon at St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

The congregations of the Church of Our Saviour, the Placerville Church of the Nazarene and the Federated Church will unite in a service at the Federated Church opening at noon. The Rev. Harold G. Morehouse, pastor of the church, will conduct the service in co-operation with Rev. Edwin J. Castledine, of the Episcopal church, and the Rev. Don De Pasquale, of the Church of the Nazarene.

It is requested of those who attend the service that if they are obliged to leave during the service, they will please arrange to do so at the conclusion of one of the seven parts of the service.

Billy Klare Locates Meteorological Tube

Billy Klare, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Klare, of Fairplay, is tending his rabbits and looking for the mail man daily.

Because, according to Billy's information, the mail man is going to bring him one dollar one of these days, with the compliments of Uncle Sam.

Recently while out on the ranch with his father looking for a calf, Billy thought he saw the calf some distance away and pointed out the object to his father.

"I don't know what it is, but it can't be the calf because it's up in a tree," Mr. Klare told Billy, and together they went to investigate. Well, it proved to be a meteorological tube, evidently sent aloft about March 7th on a balloon by the weather bureau at Oakland. The tube was attached to a red parachute about four feet square, and the tube bore an address with the request that it be returned.

It has been returned and Billy has learned that the government rewards such finds with a crisp one dollar bill, which his father has promised will be his alone when it arrives.

District Attorney Henry S. Lyon and Charles W. Ball were at Sonoma on Wednesday, attending one of the series of regional conferences of district attorneys called by Attorney General Earl Warren. Mr. Warren was present and addressed the meeting.

The normal to April 1 is 34.77 inches.

The normal to May 1 is 38.21 inches.

Rainfall for the season up to 8 o'clock Thursday morning in Placerville was 40.87 inches, which is almost half an inch in excess of the seasonal "normal" of 40.46 inches computed on a basis of precipitation over a fifty-year period.

Thursday morning, the state Division of Highways office at Smith Flat reported one foot of snow at Strawberry Resort, all of which had fallen during the previous twenty-four hours.

Kyburz had two inches of snow and Pollock Pines had four inches, all of record during the previous twenty-four hours.

Traffic was reported moving on U. S. Route 50 and on all principal county routes, the only mention of interference being the reference to the short one-way section on U. S. Route 50 just east of Clarksville, where a slip-out occurred on the new grade during heavy rains several weeks ago.

It is understood that the undertaking of repairs on this section awaits an improvement in the weather and that unless more serious damage results before that time the repairs may be effected without serious inconveniences to traffic.

Telephone connections with points beyond Pollock Pines were temporarily interrupted Thursday morning owing to trees falling across the line at Pollock Pines and at Ogilvie Canyon. Repair crews were in the field and restoration of service was expected momentarily.

Miss Margaret Mounsey is a house guest during the pre-Easter Week at the Edwin F. Smith home. Margaret is a school chum of Barbara Smith at the University.

Mrs. H. L. Huntington of Oakland is spending Easter week at the home of Mrs. Wm. C. Morgan.

NAZI-BRITISH BALKAN CLASH IS EXPECTED

Hitler Drive Toward Egypt Is Fast Becoming Threat To Suez And Oil Fields

LONDON, (AP) — Radio Budapest today was heard intimating in a broadcast that Hungary soon would send troops to Yugoslavia "to protect the Hungarian population."

Turkey Restless

ISTANBUL, (AP) — A government proclamation today offered free evacuation to all citizens of Istanbul and signs appeared that Turkey may be much nearer war than the statements by spokesmen and the press have indicated.

By UNITED PRESS

British armies in Greece and Africa braced themselves today for collision with Nazi blitzkrieg forces and the Royal Air Force bombed the heart of Berlin.

Adolf Hitler's southeastern offensive and the drive of his panzer divisions toward Egypt was fast becoming a major threat to Britain's whole position in the middle east—the vital Suez Canal, the oil fields of Asia Minor, and the gateway to India and the East.

So far there has been no report of a meeting between the British expeditionary corps in Greece and the Nazi columns slashing down through the Vardar gateway. But contact was expected at any time.

From Budapest came an unconfirmed rumor Belgrade had capitulated. German quarters said they had no report of such a development but previous Budapest reports of German successes in Yugoslavia have been followed by Berlin confirmation 24 hours later.

Terrific force of the German drive across Libya toward Egypt was emphasized today by revelation that Britain's three top desert commanders, Generals Richard O'Connor, P. Neame, and M. D. Gambia-Perry, are missing and presumably prisoners of the Nazi column.

Urgent consultations regarding the British position in the middle east were believed going forward in London today after arrival of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief architects of the present disposition of British forces in the middle east.

There were rumors and possibly wishful reports that Russia might be stirring from her stolid neutrality, to the north, in what was still the main war theater, the British smashed at the heart of Berlin and parried widespread night raids over the British Isles.

New Draft Law Registration

Date This Summer May Be Set To Enroll Youths 21 Since October 16th

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Selected service officials today expected to hold a second draft registration this summer for youths who have reached the age of 21 since October 16, the date of the original registration for compulsory military training.

Officials expect President Roosevelt to issue a proclamation setting the date for the new registration.

Last fall, more than 16,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive, registered. The new registration probably would involve 1,000,000 young men who have come of age since October.

always had a clean pair of his old flannel pants so he'd feel natural round the pavilion. Usually they asked him but he said he couldn't do it right unless he had flannels on. It didn't matter they'd shrunk because he was shrinking too.
When you think back you can see it didn't matter so much what actually happened as what kind of a pattern it leaves in your mind.
I helped Myrtle with the housework and I was awfully proud to do the marketing. I'd go round to Frankford Avenue right after breakfast before it got hot. Sometimes afterwards I'd go to the Andrew Carnegie Esq library and try to get interested in a book. You could always tell if a book was any good by the way you didn't notice the L rumbling overhead. Or maybe I'd iron Mac's shirts for him, but it was hotter than hell in that little kitchen.
In spite of heat, and the smell of Myrtle in the room it was never dull in that old kitchen. Pop would be sitting in the wicker chair under the wisteria vine wondering how he could wait until Mac got home to fetch something from the speakeasy. When Myrtle had something on her mind she wanted to get across to Pop, but she didn't quite like to say it direct, she'd tell it to me in a way he could hear it.
I have the ironing board across the washbasin so I can look out the window and get a breath of air. I hear Myrtle down below. "That ole man better get less sociable with liquor. He ought to be ashamed to encourage bootleggin' on Orthodox Street. I take note there's two ends

SYNOPSIS

After nine months with Aunt Hattie and Uncle Elmer in Mantion, Illinois, Kitty Foyle returns to her home in Philadelphia, and to the dear old Pop, who has been constant companion since her mother's death many years before. Kitty is planning out, and when she and Pop spend a summer vacation at the shore, Kitty has romantic yearnings which she respects she recognizes as the misgivings of adolescence.

CHAPTER VII

I got mixed up which summer was which; it didn't matter. We went down to Tidewood several times. I know it was that summer of '25 we made the embarrassing visit to Cape May. It was the first time I suffered the big female problem. Nothing to wear.
Sunday mornings, like everybody else we sat on the boarding house piazza and read the Public Ledger. I used to be fascinated by the society notes and wondered how the papers got to know so much about what Mr. and Mrs. Swarthmore Comly or the F. X. Haddonfield Berwyns were doing at Narragansett and Bar Harbor. At that time Molly Scharf and I were conducting a make-believe correspondence in which she played the part of Mrs. Rosemont Rittenhouse and I was Mrs. B. Cynwyd Lloyd. It was absurd but it was a good game. Molly, writing as Mrs. Rittenhouse, would tell me what a time she was having because she and Rosey had to entertain the Prince of Wales and all their hunters had fallen sick and they would have to use their polo ponies to chase the fox.
But one day I forgot to cover up an envelope I had just addressed to Mrs. Rosemont Rittenhouse c/o Miss Molly Scharf, Thanksgiving Ave., Manitou, Ill. Pop happened to see it and said What the hell's this? I explained the game, and Pop was amused but said not to put names like that on the outside of the letter. Some clerk at the post office, who knew damn well Mrs. Rosemont Rittenhouse wasn't in Illinois—there never was much secret about where the Rittenhouses were spending the heated term—might put the correct address on it and she'd really get the letter and be sore.
"Rosey's one of the grandest guys in the world," said Pop. "He hit three boundaries in one over, against the Gentlemen of England when they were touring here. He used to be musclebound until I taught him how to loosen up when the bowler's arm rises. I never thought I was going to be the one that's musclebound now. You know, Kitty, the Gentlemen of England used to come over here to play cricket. All they come over for now is to pull wool in Washington."

When I would read out some big Society Page name Pop could always place it his own way. Mrs. Reggie Montgomery maybe wore a white camellia at the Assembly, and a foaming mass of white tulle, but Pop remembered that he got 56 against Reggie's bowling when Frankford played Merion C.C. in 1904.
"As a matter of fact," Pop looking up from a foaming mass of Sunday Ledger, "I see Rosey's down at Cape May right now."
I never told Pop, but I myself sent that note to the paper saying that Mr. Thomas Foyle and his daughter Miss Katharine Foyle were spending the summer at "Ocean View," Tidewood Crest, while Mr. J. McGregor Foyle was remaining at "his residence" in Frankford. They printed it in South Jersey Jottings, omitting the allusion to poor Mac. Pop thought it was very enterprising of the Ocean View to have sent in our names. Of course the whole point was to send the clipping to Molly; it started her on a busy campaign to get her name mentioned somehow in the Manitou Argus.
Only a few days after that Pop was hobbling along Ocean Avenue on his way to the bootlegger, he met Mr. Rittenhouse driving through to some yachting at Barnegat. Pop was very pleased because Mr. Rittenhouse gave him a lift to the bootlegger's, ordered a whole case of pinchbottle on Pop's recommendation, brought the old man back to Ocean View in the car, and invited us down to Cape May for dinner the following Sunday.
That's when I first had the Nothing To Wear jitters. It was true too, it always is. At a seaside boarding house a kid of fourteen isn't likely to have any Rittenhouse sort of clothes. All I had with me was the old straw suitcase.
"If he'd asked us for lunch," I said, "I could have worn my blue middie and the white linen skirt, but for dinner you don't know what they may pull on us."
Kitty, I didn't know you were going to be that sort of a girl.
"Every girl is that sort of a girl."
"It's your Germantown blood coming out," he said. "All right, all right, we'll go downtown and find something chiffoon."
That's exactly what we did, and it was terrible. I didn't know any better, and let the old man pick out for me a kind of yellow gassy thing with blue flowers on it, what Pop called hysteria blossoms. It was Testimonial Meeting 8 p. m.

The reading room at the church building is open Tuesday and Friday from 2 o'clock until 4 o'clock.

"Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy." These words from I Timothy comprised the Golden Text used Sunday, April 6, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon was "Unreality." Included among the Scriptural selections was: "The Lord knoweth the days of the upright; and their inheritance shall be forever. They shall not be ashamed in the evil time; and in the day of famine they shall be satisfied" (Ps. 37: 18, 19).

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, were also included: "Science reveals the glorious possibilities of immortal man, forever unlimited by the mortal senses. No hypothesis as to the existence of another power should interpose a doubt or fear to hinder the demonstration of Christian Science." (pp. 288, 445).

REV. MOREHOUSE ACCEPTS CALL

Annual Church Meeting Held On Wednesday By Federated Church

The Rev. Harold G. Morehouse, for five years pastor of the El Dorado County Federated Church, has accepted a call to the Federated Church at Healdsburg.

Subject to confirmation by the Sacramento Presbytery at a meeting next week at Polson, the Rev. Morehouse will undertake his Healdsburg pastorate effective June 1st, upon the expiration of his assignment in the El Dorado County field.

The Rev. Morehouse had announced two weeks ago his resignation from the local pastorate and formal approval of the resignation was made by the congregation of the church at the annual meeting of the church on Wednesday night.

At Healdsburg, the Rev. Morehouse will succeed the Rev. Charles W. Null, who was also his predecessor in the El Dorado County Federated Church. The Rev. Null, it is reported, is retiring this year from active ministry.

Other business of the church meeting included the re-election of members of the Board of Control and other officers without opposition, and the receipt of reports by the various departments of the church, showing the continuing growth and extending influence of the church throughout the county.

Musical numbers of the evening included vocal solos by Mrs. Grace Steen and Phil Boelzner, and violin selections by Harold Morehouse, Jr. accompanied by his sister, Barbara. A potluck supper served under the auspices of the White Circle women's society of the church opened the evening.

foreign vessel immobilized in U. S. waters.

The President requested the legislation in a special message to congress, accompanied by the proposed draft of a resolution which would accompany his objectives. The legislation would give him full powers to take over all of the 69 Danish, Italian and German vessels which were taken into protective custody in American ports two weeks ago.

The broad ship-requisitioning powers asked by Mr. Roosevelt would give him authority to take over the French vessels lying in American ports, such as the huge $80,000,000 luxury liner Normandie should he decide that the security of national defense makes such a move advisable.

Under the proposed bill, all the governments whose ships were requisitioned would be compensated by funds from the $7,000,000,000 lend lease act appropriation.

BURGLARY SUSPECT FINED $25 ON COUNTY LICENSE LAW VIOLATION

George Everett Blain, of Sacramento, who faces a Superior Court trial April 22 on two charges of burglary, was fined $25 before Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis Monday when found guilty of operating as a junk buyer in the county without a license.

Blain, officials noted, had convicted himself by the statement that he paid a man $20 for metal taken off the Walter Bidstrup place, near El Dorado.

The burglary charges against Blain were brought by officials when it was learned in the course of an investigation of the alleged theft of scrap metal from the Bidstrup place, that Mr. Bidstrup noticed that two cabins on the property had been entered.

The grand theft charge under which Blain was originally held was dismissed and the burglary charges entered. Blain has been bound over for trial, set for April 22, and a venire of thirty-five has been called for service in the case.

The venire includes William Ogle, W. N. Stearns, A. S. Wilson, Nick Boice, Ellsworth Willard, Sarah M. Gordon, Albert A. George, Mary S. Bacchi, Joseph A. Hansen, Ephraim Anderson, Howard Wallace, Elsie Salgado, J. M. Strickland, Emily Tetraut, Dudley Freeland, Lillian Martin, Elmer Ruple, Frank Oulicky, Joseph M. Stermer, George C. ## FARM ADVISOR HAS SHIPPING TAGS FOR ENTRIES IN WOOL SHOW

The Farm Advisor's office has received shipping tags and shipping instructions for those who wish to enter fleeces in the annual California Wool Show, to be held in connection with the Ram Sale, at the state fair grounds May 6 and 7.

Those who wish to enter fleeces may gain further information on the subject by contacting the farm advisor.

It is suggested among these actively interested that it will be advantageous to enter fleeces, regardless of hopes of claiming awards, since the fleeces are expertly judged and graded and the results of this grading, whether leading to awards or not, will be of interest to the sheep men of the county.

FOREST RESCUE PARTY AFTER RANGER STRANDED IN FRENCH MEADOWS

Ranger Frank McCaslin, of Georgetown district, and C. C. Herbert forest road superintendent, led a rescue party from Georgetown Ranger station Thursday morning, bound for French Meadows, where Ranger Hobart Snider, of Truckee District on Tahoe Forest, has been stranded for ten days with a badly sprained ankle.

Efforts to effect a rescue from Soda Springs have failed when it was found impossible to pull the sled on which Snider must be carried, up hill.

From the Georgetown side, the party will be descending whatever hills are encountered on the trip out.

Start was made Wednesday evening with a tractor bucking the road, followed by trucks. The party also carries an especially built sled, designed by Bert Parsons and built for the Forest Service at Snowline CCC camp, which is intended for use in such rescue work. The party returned to the ranger station Wednesday night and resumed its journey at daybreak again Thursday.

Snider has food and has company at the cabin where he has taken refuge.

With Ranger McCaslin and Mr. Herbert in the rescue party are Chas. Beardsley, of Tahoe forest, and Eugene Kincaid, Gordon Davenport, Graehme Thorne, Roy Ogden and Bob Cron, of Eldorado Forest.

The cabin in which Snider is staying is fifteen miles from Goggin.

READY FOR TEST - By Jack Sords

Today's Sport Parade

By Henry McElmore
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (UP)—Prof. Jack Doyle, the betting commissioner who is a sort of one man Lloyds of London in the sports world, dropped in today to announce that his odds on the major league baseball races would be forthcoming shortly.

As soon as they are made public a stream of currency and checks will start flowing in the direction of the professor from all parts of the country. His odds come as near being official as anything you can find, and some of the money he gets is a sight to see. Some of it comes out from under mattresses in Alabama, some of it is crisp, shiny stuff just out of the bank, and occasionally a large, old-size bill shows up.

The professor still is studying the baseball situation and is not quite ready to come up with his opening line, but he had some interesting observations to make on how he goes about picking favorites and fixing odds. He starts out by junking the classic theory that pitching is 70 per cent of a baseball.

"I look at the infield," he said. "You'd be surprised how often a good infield makes great pitchers. Atley Donald was a good pitcher so long as the New York Yankees infield held up. When it fell to pieces he did, too. The most important part of the infield is short-stop and second base, but the ball club I like has to have four good men in there. Occasionally an outstanding outfielder can make a difference in the odds, but most of the time I don't pay any attention to the outfield."

After putting out his opening line on the ball clubs Doyle becomes a sort of human mutuel machine, changing the prices according to the amount of money bet on each club. He usually revises his odds after about a month or six weeks of the season has elapsed and keeps changing them from time to time. The only bad spot he ever got into as a betting commissioner was when he quoted the Boston Braves at 60 to 1 in 1914. He got $300 worth of bets on the Braves and stood to lose $18,000 if they won the pennant.

That was the year that George Stallings, "The Miracle Man," brought the Braves from last place on July 4 to a pennant and a world series victory in four straight games over the Athletics. Before the Braves got on top, however, Doyle sold all his bets on them; and actually made a $100 profit on the deal.

Dr. Dan Babcock was home Tuesday evening from his army station at Camp Haan, near Riverside. Dr. Babcock flew to Sacramento in his own plane and, after spending a few hours at his home here and with friends, left for Sacramento again to fly southward, expecting to report for duty at eight o'clock Wednesday morning.

Leland Schneider was doing business in the county seat Thursday from Sloughhouse.

LOWELL WEST BOWLS 266 GAME TO TOP LOCAL KEGLERS

It wasn't a league match, but "the big news" in bowling this week is that Lowell West bowled a 266 game at the Pear Bowl on Wednesday evening to set up the high score for the bowling alley thus far.

His 266 gives him a substantial margin over Bill White, whom he displaced as "No. 1". White had a 241.

West bowls with the Placerville Lumber Company team in the Timber League and the high score was run up in game played Wednesday night after the regular Timber League series.

BARTLETT DEBUT ON SUNDAY IS HELD DOUBTFUL

Dr. Richard C. Hosking, president of the Bartletts, agrees that "it looks mighty doubtful" that the Bartlets will be able to open their Placer-Nevada League season Sunday against Auburn.

"The game is scheduled at Marcus P. Bennett, Jr., Memorial Park and it is possible that the field will be dry enough for the game, but by the looks of things now," the doctor suggested, "the chances are not very good."

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Palmer are spending this week at San Francisco and Colleen Ann has as her house guest, Grandma Palmer.

The Regular April meeting of the county Farm Bureau directors will be held at the office of the Farm Advisor in the basement of the postoffice at eight o'clock tonight. President James A. Owing to the high bank of snow on either side of the road, the Sheriff continued to Phillips Station to turn the car around and start back to Placerville. The sheriff reports he was traveling in second gear and that the car was equipped with chains.

On the curve at the easterly end of Tamarack Flat, the sheriff reports, he saw the Cook car coming and owing to the narrow roadway he stopped his car. The Cook car, the sheriff says, was not equipped with chains and did not stop, crashing almost head on into the sheriff's car.

This is the SOCIAL REGISTER of a City

Look how much your hotel can do for you—if you use it often

"Let's hold the meeting at the hotel, and we'll get better attendance"

Attendance is better because good food, extra service and the air of importance the hotel gives your meeting make it one your members want to attend. Try the hotel and see what a difference it makes.

"Everybody has more fun when we entertain at the hotel"

Smart hostesses are turning to the hotel as the place to give their parties. Hotels relieve you of all bother about plans and preparations—allow you to begin, and end, the evening, almost a guest yourself.

"I'll meet you at the hotel at six"

More and more your hotel is becoming the "right" place to start your social evenings. It's only natural that good music, excellent food, and an interesting cosmopolitan atmosphere will mean more fun for you.

"How hotels help your business"

Hotels maintain large staffs whose salaries help swell the volume in your retail stores. And, good times or bad, hotels go on paying a large share of the taxes. Sound business practice says you help yourself when you support your local hotels.

To thousands and thousands of travelers your hotels are the social registers of your city. They are the windows through which the rest of the world sees how you entertain, how you conduct your business, how you live. Help us sell our community to these travelers. And take advantage of all the services only a hotel can offer.
